Rate Tribunal to Slow Up Hearings as Revenue Ebbs

Its Tax Support Is Cut in Half by Supreme Court Decision

TAX UPON EARNINGS

Levy Can Not Be Applied to Utilities' Gross Receipts

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—Fear that the fact finding tribunal's work would be seriously curtailed after June 30 was expressed Tuesday by state officials after Comptroller Griffin Smith revealed that present operating revenue had been collected only for the first six months this year.

Under the Supreme Court ruling Monday that the $2 per thousand tax should be collected against the gross earnings earnings of state utilities instead of gross revenue, it was estimated by P. A. Lasley, chairman, that the annual revenue of the tribunal would be reduced 50 to 75 per cent.

Under Smith's statement the reduced revenues would be effective July 1 if all the companies took advantage of the court's decision.

It was thought Monday that the tribunal would be able to complete its calendar year on the revenues collected, but Smith found that most of the companies took advantage of the feature allowing semi-annual payment of taxes.

200 Million U. S. Aid for Highways

Available This Year—Penalize States Diverting Gas Tax

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Continuation of the federal government's emergency road building program at the present rate through the coming year was assured Monday.

President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing expenditure of $222,000,000 over a period of three years, $200,000,000 to be spent in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Approximately 5,000 projects are under way employing 240,000 men. They will continue on the job.

The bill provides about half as much money as was made available in the emergency act of 1933 and makes allotments of funds to carry part of the program through 1937.

Work now under way and part of that to be begun under the new authorization is financed by the federal government with states not required to match federal funds.

Upon the conclusion of this program, however, road building will revert to the plan under way in 1931, 1932, and 1933, with states and the federal government sharing equally the cost.

Funds made available Monday were distributed as follows:

$200,000,000 for continuation of the emergency road building program, not less than 25 per cent of which may be applied to secondary or "feeder" roads.

$24,000,000 for immediate work on national park roads.

$10,000,000 to be spent as relief funds for repairing or restoring roads damaged by floods or storms.

$125,000,000 for emergency highway construction in each of the fiscal years 1936 and 1937, these funds to be matched by states.

$6,500,000 for building roads on public lands and Indian reservations during each of the fiscal years 1936 and 1937.

$7,500,000 for building national park roads during each of the fiscal years 1936 and 1937.

The new act provides that states which divert gasoline tax revenue to purposes other than for roads may be penalized to the extent of one-third of their apportionment of federal funds from 1936 to 1937, or succeeding years.

It also lifts limitations on the use of federal funds for road construction in cities. The bureau was formerly limited to expenditures of $15,000 per mile, making it impossible to aid in building roads in cities where construction costs were higher.

Secret and successful test flights of the first silent team-turbine-driven airplane was completed recently in Berlin in the presence of German army and civilian experts.

Teddy Jones Resigns as Hope Coach

Bobcat Leader to Join Chicago Book Firm This Month

Faculty Member's Resignation Due to Deplorable School Finances

TEXARKANA OFFER

Jones Rejects Another Coaching Proposal to Enter Business

Formal resignation of Coach Teddy Jones as a member of the faculty and athletic instructor in Hope High School, was announced here Tuesday in a letter Mr. Jones wrote to Miss Beryl Henry, advisory superintendent of Hope schools.

Mr. Jones will leave this week for Chicago where he has accepted a position with Lyons & Carnahan, educational publishers.

The resignation of the former Ouchita college football star and three-year coach of high school athletics here, comes as a shock to followers of the Bobcats and the entire community.

The financial condition of Arkansas schools prompted Mr. Jones to break definitely from the teaching and coaching profession, the letter stated.

Mr. Jones had contemplated such action for a long time, he said, but interest in coaching football and other phases of athletics, kept him here.

Rejects Coaching Offer
Mr. Jones was informed of his new position in a telegram received in Hope Tuesday morning. Simultaneously he was offered a position as head football coach at Texarkana, Ark., High School, to fill the vacancy left by Coach Ed Dunaway who resigned several weeks ago to enter the medical profession.

Completing a brilliant football career at Fine Bluff High School and Ouchita college, Mr. Jones came here three years ago as head football coach, succeeding Charles Wilkin.

At Ouchita, Jones' outstanding achievements in athletics was gained as quarterback of the football team. He was chosen on the mythical all-state eleven, and won laurels as a basketball player and track athlete.

Taking over the reins as head instructor of athletics here, Coach Jones piloted football teams through three successful seasons.

His basketball team this year went to the finals in District 10 competition, being nosed out by Waverlyville. In the state meet at Harrison the Bobcats were runner-ups for the Arkansas title.

What probably would have been his most successful accomplishment here as athletic instructor was in prospect for next fall. An array of football material will await Jones' successor when the gridiron season opens.

No announcement from school officials was made as to who would fill the vacancy, but Assistant Coach Jimmy Jones is being mentioned as the likely successor.

Jones' Letter
The letter of resignation:
Miss Beryl Henry, Superintendent Public Schools, Hope, Arkansas.

Dear Miss Henry: The purpose of this letter is to advise you that I hereby resign my position as a member of the faculty and coach of athletics in Hope High School. Due to the deplorable financial condition of the schools of Arkansas I have contemplated such action for a long time, but because of my genuine interest in coaching and in Hope I have not been able to muster enough courage to break definitely from the teaching profession.

This morning I received a telegram informing me that I have been selected as the Arkansas representative of Lyons & Carnahan, educational publishers of Chicago. This position is effective immediately and I shall report in Chicago next Monday morning. It is because of the financial attractiveness and the chances for future advancement that I deem it unwise to decline this opportunity.

It is with a great deal of regret that I submit this, my formal resignation, to you; because I have enjoyed immensely the three years that I have been in Hope; I have enjoyed being a member of your system, enjoyed coaching, and it is only natural that I find it difficult to sever my connections with the Hope Public Schools and this community. To my many friends and to the supporters of athletics I wish to express my appreciation for their interest and efforts, and to my successor I wish the greatest possible success.

It is with the greatest degree of respect for you, your school system, and the board of education that I submit this resignation to you.

Very sincerely,
TEDDY JONES.

Fred Ogan Buried Tuesday at Fulton

Father and Niece, Injured, Unable to Attend Funeral

Funeral and burial services for Fred Ogan, 24, victim of the tragic auto in which eight other persons were killed, were held Tuesday afternoon at Fulton.

Unable to attend the services were his father, H. C. Ogan of Fulton, and Miss Mary Collins, a niece of the dead man.

Both were in Josephine hospital, Mr. Ogan suffering from a broken knee-cap and chest injuries.

Miss Collins was showing improvement from a broken leg, cuts, bruises and a head injury.

Others hurt in the accident are recovering. The mishap occurred 12 miles west of Hope on the paved Fulton highway.

Arnold Child Gets Urschel Reward

Geralene Wins $4,000 of $15,000 Promised by Family's Friend

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(A)—A court decision granting her $4,000 brought a happy ending Monday to the kidnapping of the "child nemesis" of the kidnappers of Charles F. Urschel, in her claim for a promised $15,000 reward.

The 13-year-old girl rode thousands of miles through the Southwest with George Kelly and his wife Kathryn, later convicted of conspiracy in the kidnapping. The capture of the Kellys in Memphis, Arkansas, asserted, was made possible by information divulged by her.

C. F. Colcord, wealthy Oklahoma City friend of Urschel, underwrote an offer of $15,000 reward for the capture of Kelly. When Kelly was arrested, Colcord refused to pay on the grounds that the information she furnished already was in the hands of federal agents.

Steel Workers to Ask 3-Man Board

Johnson Hopeful That Industry Will Accept 4-Point Program

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Representatives of the steel workers' union Tuesday placed before President Roosevelt a letter containing their proposal for settlement of the threatened strike in the steel industry.

Word came simultaneously from Hugh S. Johnson that he was very hopeful of the industry's acceptance of the union's four-point program for avoiding strikes.

The union proposal suggested a three-member board to handle complaints, to mediate in cases of disputes, and to order and hold elections and transmit other matters.

Fair Park Being Placed in Shape for Fireman's Holiday Event

Approximately 2,000 pounds of barbecued meat and 75 gallons of "hush puppy" is on the menu for those who participate in the Fourth July celebration here sponsored by Hope Fire department.

The meat will be prepared by Jim For Stuart of Ozan and will be served free. The "hush puppy" will be cooked by Bob Carrigan, Ozan constable.

Fair park is being put in shape by workmen. Serving tables are already under construction by carpenters.

Frank Reeder, manager of the rodeo to be staged as a feature attraction, was in Hope Monday making arrangements for construction of chutes and catch pens.

Mr. Reeder announced that he would give $25 to anyone bringing a wild animal to Hope that could not be ridden by himself or his trouper.

Mr. Reeder assured stock owners that all animals would be ridden in a fair way and that none would be abused.

Users are to be ridden with a loose rope.

In a cow-milking contest, untamed cows are to be milked standing up, and soda pop bottles are to be used as milk pails, Mr. Reeder said.

Congress Finally Adjourns; Railway Labor Bill Passes

Dill Mediation Measure Adopted to Stave Off Deadlock

CANCEL FILIBUSTER

Hastings Abandons It When Leaders Give in to Insurgents

WASHINGTON.—(P)—President Roosevelt considered Tuesday the communications and housing bills in particular as the "New Deal" congress departed from the capital after appropriating approximately 6 billion 800 million dollars in legislation.

Late Tuesday night the president leaves for Yale where he will receive a degree.

He will probably sign some bills before his departure and the silver measure is scheduled definitely for a signature Tuesday night.

He will attend the Harvard-Yale boat races Friday, spend the weekend at Hyde Park, and return here next week.

He has postponed his cruise to Hawaii until June 30, to enable him to name the stock exchange and communications commissions.

President Roosevelt Tuesday signed the bill empowering the supreme court to prescribe rules of practice for federal courts, and described it as "one of the most important steps ever taken in the improvement of our judicial system."

Congress Adjourns
WASHINGTON.—(P)—Congress finally quit Monday night with party independents in command and its program a little more than complete.

That little more was the price of adjournment exacted by the insurgents in a bold last minute drive which crushed the opposition of the Democratic leadership.

It consisted of the Dill railway labor-disputes adjustment act, pushed through to enactment even over the decision of President Roosevelt to let it go to the next congress.

Senator Hastings, Republican, Delaware, conducted a persistent one-man talking match against the bill, but, learning that the Democratic leaders had capitulated to the insurgents and decided to wait him out, he abandoned his tactics.

End Comes Quickly
With this measure out of the way, the end came quickly through the adoption of a conference report on the administration housing bill, last remaining item on the Roosevelt program and in house acceptance of senate amendments to the rail bill.

The day also saw the independents victorious in an effort to get senate adoption of a conference report of the Frazier bill, giving bankrupt farmers a virtual six-year moratorium on their debts.

A filibuster over this measure and a filibuster for it by Long of Louisiana were important contributing causes of the abandonment of carefully made plans to end the session on Saturday night.

In addition action was completed during the day on the second deficiency bill carrying more than $2,000,000 of appropriations largely for relief expenditures.

The slow progress of conferees on the housing bill, who were in session throughout the day gave the independents their opportunity to force through their railway bill. Early in the day they began by an announcement by Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, that he and others would filibuster against adjournment unless and until the railway bill was enacted.

Robinson of Arkansas protested vigorously. He said he was for the bill but had been informed that the opposition to it would cause an extensive prolongation of the session. Then he brought President Roosevelt into the situation.

Quotes President.
"The President thinks, and I think," he said, "that if the measure is to be taken up and indefinitely discussed it had better go over until the next session. It is not of emergency measure."

Wheeler and other independents replied with their threat that "unless we do get a chance to vote on it, I and a number of other senators will do our best to keep the congress from adjourning until such time as we do get an opportunity for a vote."

The insurgents were not to be thwarted. Dill moved the bill to be made the senate's unfinished business and Hastings began his filibuster, carrying out a warning that he was prepared to speak indefinitely. Later he reluctantly permitted a vote on the Dill motion which started galleries by producing a 76-2 vote in favor of consideration and found the leadership

TEXAS WOMAN IS HELD IN SLAYING OF ILLINOIS DENTIST

EL DORADO, Ill.—(P)—Acid burns about the face of Dr. H. L. Meyers, wealthy dentist whose body was found on a farm near here Monday with a bullet in the back, added further mystery to the conditions surrounding his death, officials said Tuesday.

The burns were discovered by a funeral director while preparing the body for burial.

A woman identified as Evelyn Anderson, of Woodboro, Texas, was detained Monday in connection with the case, and police are seeking a man named Lee Armstrong as "the prospective buyer who accompanied the dentist to the farm."

Hindenburg Thrust at Hitler Is Seen

German President Suspected of Backing von Papen's Attack

BERLIN, Germany.—(P)—Indications of a possible split between President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler over Nazi policies were seen by political observers Tuesday as an lvered against the government by aftermath of the startling blast of Vice-Chancellor von Papen.

Hindenburg's Hand Seen
BERLIN, Germany.—(P)—Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen's denunciations of the Nazi doctrine assumed added significance Monday when it became known that Count Rudolf Nafolny had resigned as German ambassador to Russia.

This is the first defection from government ranks since the resignation of Dr. Aldren Hugenberg as minister of economics and agriculture last June. Nafolny's resignation, withheld from the public until Monday, dates back to the middle of May when he vainly tried to persuade Chancellor Adolf Hitler to accept Russia's proposal to a non-aggression pact—a proposal also favored by the Foreign Office.

As Nafolny is a close friend of the family of President von Hindenburg, some political circles saw his resignation and von Papen's speech as steps in a campaign by Hindenburg to bring Nazi extremists to their senses.

Hindenburg is at the ancestral estate at Neudeck where it is reported his East Prussian associates are hard at work in opposition to Nazi policies, especially agrarian.

One vision of von Papen's speech is that he spoke on his own initiative with little state during that brought his removal from the Prussian Socialist cabinet in July 1933.

The most common comment was that his speech, delivered Sunday to students at Marburg university was that it forecasts his definite break with Hitlerism.

Chancellor Hitler's address at Garup proclaiming the end of dictating to Germany and asserting that "Germany's first is ready to smash" criticism was conspicuously displayed in the press.

Von Papen's remarks after taking issue with the campaign against "groupings" and advocating freedom of criticism by the press, however, were withheld from the newspapers.

While many thought that the speech meant that von Papen is on his way out of the government, others speculated that he may have spoken with the connivance of the chancellor.

REMOVE PRISONERS

Passengers and Officers Taken to Hills—Pursuit Is in Vain

CHEFOO, China.—(P)—The British steamer Shuntien, stripped of her valuables and 26 passengers and officers, arrived in Chefoo Tuesday with a story of a daring piracy along China's "Spanish Main."

One officer was shot and gravely wounded resisting brigands who commandeered the vessel Sunday night off the Yellow river and held passengers and crews at bay with their guns.

Landing the prisoners, including six British subjects, in inaccessible swamps on the Yellow river delta, the captors fled with them to the hills.

British and American warships pursued the boats but were unable to follow the pirates into the swamps.

The plans to rob the ship were apparently well laid, the captain said, and the vessel was methodically stripped.

Five junks appeared alongside the ship and took off the prisoners and loot.

W. M. Ramsey New Commander—Fish Fry Thursday at Lower Red Lake

Dewey Hendrix, Commander of the Leslie Huddleston post of the American Legion, tendered his resignation to the executive committee of the post Monday afternoon, giving as his reason his entry into the race for county tax assessor.

During his term as commander the post made rapid strides, the membership climbing this year to more than the quota assigned by the state headquarters.

W. M. Ramsey, first vice-commander, succeeds Mr. Hendrix.

Thursday night the post will have a county wide meeting and fish fry at Lower Red lake, south of Spring Hill. Legionnaires, World war veterans and friends have been invited to attend.

Negroes Observe Emancipation Day

Picnic and Baseball Program Held Tuesday at Booster Park

Hope negroes Tuesday observed Emancipation Day with an all-day picnic, boxing matches and a baseball game.

At Booster park barbecued meats, red soda pop, ice cream and cake were served in generous quantities.

The afternoon was climaxed with boxing exhibitions, the main event scheduled between Preacher Walker and Waldo McFadden.

Later in the day a baseball game was to be played between the Hope Giants and Camden at Yeger athletic field.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Roosevelt Can Face Music and Take It... Who's Crazy in Washington?... A Day of Jammed Memories in the Nation's Capitol.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—They had one of those highbrow musicals at the White House the other night, organized by Mrs. Roosevelt, who likes to entertain and make everybody happy.

Mr. Roosevelt, whose favorite song is "Home on the Range" and who is always up on the current slang, walked into it on the arm of a colored servant.

"You know," he confided to the servant, "I'm not very strong for this sort of thing. But I can take it."

Who's Crazy? Your Guess

A man walked into the Senate gallery the other day and he was very nearly nude.

To be exact, he wore sandals, a loin cloth and a short white cape over his shoulders. (Later he described himself as "the American Gandhi.")

Anyway, he wore so little that he caused no end of consternation and was promptly hustled out of view by Sergeant-at-Arms Chesley Jurney and half a dozen policemen.

It was at that point that Senator Frederic C. Walcott of Connecticut, a Republican if ever there was one, demanded:

"What do you want to arrest him for? Probably he's the only sane man in Washington."

There's a certain amount of evidence that Walcott was giving voice to an opinion widely held not only in Washington, but also in the country outside. To be brutally frank, however, one must admit that nearly all congressmen, as well as most New Dealers, harbor an idea that the rest of the nation is not crazy, but just plain dumb. (Neither idea is completely true.)

Rarest sight in Washington, Miss Frances "Robbie" Robinson, in an NRA corridor without her boss, General Johnson. Reason: She had been out to powder her nose. . . . Willard Thorpe, chief of Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce until Chairman Stephens of Commerce Committee scuttled his conformation, working with sleeves rolled up in office of Dexter Keezer, brains of NRA. Consumers' Advisory Board. Mrs. Thorpe is doing temporary job for his close friend Keezer before taking big job with National Emergency Council—after Congress adjourns.

Willard hotel, fourth floor: Clarence Darrow and Charles Edward Russell, his adviser two aged, inveterate Socialists—trotting to the elevator toward lunch. Darrow unkempt as usual; Russell dapper in straw hat, tropical suit, cane and sport shoes.

Don Rieberg, biggest NRA shot next to Johnson, sticking his head out office window to signal to Mrs. R., waiting in automobile across the street, that he's ready to go home. (Just at that point, a heard later, a sudden conference broke out and Mrs. R. had to wait an hour and a half.)

Jim Farley's house—warning for the press, beginning at his office in new postoffice building and continuing long at Hotel Rawleigh's top floor ballroom; Jim, who doesn't drink, said the newspaper boys had been nice to him and he wanted to do something nice for them. . . . He'd cut his finger, "scraped it on a door." Couldn't get his mind off his work. Somebody had written a speech which he must deliver soon and he stepped out on the parapet in the middle of the party to see if he liked it.

Painting of Ben Franklin in Farley's office bears startling resemblance to Jim. So does Bill Slattery, F. O. Department controller, just as bald, but not as tall or white-haired.

All Democracy's patronage lieutenants are there, including big Emil Hurja. You may have thought they were tough, unprincipled spoilsmen, but they talk like pure-hearted evangelists of the New Deal. . . . Also Bob Jackson, J. Bruce Kerner and Arthur Mullen—the "big three" lobbyists who quit the national committee because they were afraid if they are graceful and supple, they will be twice as good. P. D. said they must do that or quit lobbying. High political official in home state is as politically potent in home state—New Hampshire, Montana, Nebraska respectively—as ever.

Washington hotel coffee shoppe for dinner. Vice President and Mrs. Jack Garner. Jack calls out to a news-gatherer man: "Hey—, you're looking pale. Trouble with you is you don't drink the right brand of whisky."

Willard hotel again, hours later: Absinthe frappe in Stag room with Sidney Hillman of Amalgamated Clothing Workers and NRA. Objective conversation about everybody, but big embarrassment because I invited Sidney in and find I've left my pocket-book somewhere, so he pays the bill.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Children Must Be Told Dangers of Swimming—Point Out the Diving and Whirlpool Dangers

The trouble with children is that time is so long for them they forget lessons. One year is a century. What happened last summer is gone as completely as the Stone Age. Who was drowned or hurt swimming is only a vague dream. Past has no bearing on present. It is always a new day with new urges and experiments.

Not only that but their world is limited. They have no general knowledge of accidents. They do not read the papers. Therefore a season's toll of many hundreds of deaths by water even in the current season, does not affect their judgment.

I believe that we leave too many things for them to decide, trusting to their knowledge of danger. We think they have the same perspective we have—that the many accidents have registered in their minds the same as they have in ours with resulting caution.

Children Forget

Not so. Probably not the smallest fraction of one per cent of children have ever actually known a boy or girl who was drowned, or a man or woman, either.

These two things added together make the situation plain. If our children are to be saved from risk, it is absolutely the parent's duty to save them—if possible.

Because it goes something like this as a rule. "Johnny, you mustn't go in that river again because three people were drowned right there last summer. It is dangerous." Then Johnny scoffs, "Why, that was ages ago. Nothing ever happens there now. I tell you it's perfectly safe, mother. Besides, I am a good swimmer."

And the chances are, Johnny, being convinced he is right, and that all women are fraidies about water anyway, will say, "Yeah, let's go," when some one wiggles two fingers.

Yet that doesn't relieve us of the responsibility. It is still up to us to save these young fellas from themselves. And, by the way, I wonder just how many ideas that last show of Johnny's put into kids' heads about staying under water until your own lungs burst in sympathy.

Point Out Dangers

The best way to do is to show a child home real reason for not taking risks. Take a pencil and draw whirls and currents under the calm surface of a river, illustrating the power of forces stronger than he is. Show him what a "suck hole" is, and quicksand. Draw a dock with old broken piles or pound-piles which are hidden, and on which he may strike his head when he dives. Or sunken boats or any of the accumulation of years that usually surround docks.

Explain what "cramp" really means. It is only a word to him.

Too bad to be taking the joy out of life, but it is better than taking life. A pool with all its risks is still much safer than a river, especially a pool with a guard. Some hundreds of children will be drowned this year, perhaps. Whose will they be? We might begin right now to cheat death.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Try These Exercises to Keep Hands Supple

Beauty, as far as hands and wrists are concerned, is much more than skin deep. No matter how white, smooth and well-kept looking your hands may be, they will be twice as lovely if they are graceful and supple. Plan to devote a few minutes each day to exercises that will loosen tense muscles and stiff joints in your hands and wrists. Most exercises of this type are simple and can be done while seated. Here are some that you might try:

Relax arms, hands and wrists and then imagine that you're trying to shake water from your finger tips. Let the fingers snap together with a downward shake, keeping shoulders and arms perfectly relaxed so that they, as well as wrists and fingers, are exercised. Repeat at least 20 times and then go on to the next step. Make believe that you're pulling taffy. Stretch the arms outward, close

American Slain by Her Lover, Report

Agnes Tufverson Missing—Unidentified Body Found in Trunk

By the Associated Press

The mystery of what happened to Miss Agnes Tufverson, New York and Detroit lawyer after her marriage last December to Capt. Ivan Pederjaya, dashing internationalist, deepened Monday as Vienna police made new discoveries in connection with Pederjaya.

With the captain in jail for investigation, police searched his apartment again and found a trunk and numerous other articles that belonged to the missing woman.

At the same time in Brighton, Eng., a trunk containing a woman's torso was found in a railway luggage room and officers said they also had found the legs of the body, Scotland Yard detectives gave consideration to the theory that the victim was the American woman, but there was a marked discrepancy with the broadcast police description.

Search for the trunk has been an important phase of the investigation since there were reports that when Pederjaya left New York after marrying Miss Tufverson—bigamously, he said—he carried one belonging to her. This fact centered attention of the Brighton murder trunk, a cheap affair of British make, as well as upon the big green wardrobe trunk found in Pederjaya's apartment.

The woman who had been living with Pederjaya as his wife, although registered with the police as Susanne Ferrar, was taken into custody after the property was found. Police said she evidently knew the trunk, dresses, jewelry and books belonging to Miss Tufverson.

Vienna police turned Capt. Pederjaya's story of his relations with Agnes Tufverson, missing American woman, topsy turvy and announced at the conclusion of a day of fast-moving investigation that they believed the woman is dead.

Dakota Governor Convicted by U. S.

Federal Judge Guarded as North Dakota Situation Intensifies

BISMARCK, N. D.—(P)—Faced by a political tangle unique in state history as the result of the conviction of Governor William Langer on federal conspiracy charges and the claim of the lieutenant governor of the state, to the office, North Dakotans Monday nervously surveyed a situation that brought federal troops to its capital city as a precaution against violence.

Conviction of Governor Langer created two unrelated tense situations. First, fears of violence against Federal Judge Andrew Miller who will impose the sentence on Langer and four associates convicted of conspiracy and facing minimum sentences of two years imprisonment.

Second, a movement to declare Lieutenant Governor Ole H. Olson governor possibly through court action.

Langer's Sentence Postponed
As Langer heard the court defer sentence until June 29—two days after the June primary in which he is a candidate for re-election—Olson conferred with political friends. He took the oath of office as governor but did not file it. Lawyers studied methods to be employed in attempting to oust Langer through court action.

Two truck loads of federal troops moved from Fort Lincoln near here under authority from troop headquarters in Omaha and were stationed before the federal building as the court convened.

State Politics in Turmoil
The gubernatorial situation threw state politics into turmoil.

Langer said he intended to "fight to the last" to retain his office. Before the executive offices were posted the sheriff of this county and a deputy under Langer's orders to prevent any person from entering the quarters. The move was taken as a precaution against a surprise move.

Langer, noted for his frequent use of the National Guardsmen to enforce his several moratorium and embargo proclamations, said he would use "force" if necessary to retain office.

To Oust Governor

BISMARCK, N. D.—(P)—A challenge to Gov. William A. Langer's right to continue as North Dakota's chief executive was developing Sunday, a few hours after his conviction of a federal felony.

Supporters of Lieut. Gov. Ole H. Olson, Langer's running mate two years ago but now the leader of an opposition faction, awaited his arrival here in expectation that he would take immediate steps to advance his claims to the governorship on the grounds that the verdict of guilty returned this morning against Langer and four associates automatically disqualified the governor from office.

A Rare Case

The felony conviction, one of the few in American history that have involved a state's chief officer, was the first the federal government had obtained against such an official on the particular charge, defrauding the United States through the solicitation of federal employees for political contributions. The donations were obtained for the support of The League of Nations a year ago to back the Langer regime.

Sentence will be imposed Monday by Federal Judge Andrew Miller. The governor and his four close political associates convicted with him face a maximum sentence of two years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000. They gave notice that they would file motions for a new trial and said they planned appeals in case their motions are denied tomorrow.

Mob Violence Feared

The jury's verdict returned Sunday morning at 12:14 a. m. after nearly 60 hours of deliberation, caused a turmoil in North Dakota politics unparalleled in the history of the state. Since the trial began, May 22, tension has been high throughout the state and with talk of mobs mobilizing in Bismarck, secret precautions were taken by federal officers to cope with any trouble that might develop.

State Highway Commissioner Frank A. Vogel, R. A. Kizer, former federal Relief Commission secretary; Oscar A. Chaput, business manager of The Leader, and Harold McDonald were convicted with the governor.

Langer took office January 1, 1933 in the landslide which swept the Non-partisan League into control of the state's government. He has been a political stormy petrel since, breaking soon with the league's executive committee. His policy for wholesale embargoes for the express benefit of farmers, debtors and small business men had brought him both commendation and condemnation.

The investigation which resulted in the indictment of Langer and eight others in Fargo last April was preceded a few weeks ago by the removal of the chief executive as head of the federal relief organization in the state.

Boycott May Be Germany's Reply

Reich Threatens Realization If Debt Issue Is Forced

BERLIN, Germany.—(P)—With the question of the foreign debt moratorium out of the way, there were indications Sunday that Germany intends to make a keen-edged economic weapon of her power to buy raw materials. Apparently the weapon is to be brought into play if other nations resort to retaliations because of the Reich's determination not to pay its foreign obligations for a while.

Reports that this will be the nation's policy were heightened by statements that a raw materials commissioner would be nominated soon. The West Deutscher Boebacher, Nazi organ of Cologne, stated that a man even is being considered for the post, he is described as a man "who is a scientist as well as a person of practical understanding, and who has an excellent reputation in the field of international metal industries especially."

How such a commissioner would function in view of restrictions already on import of raw materials is not indicated. It was assumed he would consolidate and make even more effective the economic pressure which the Reich exerts through raw material purchases in the world markets.

Talk of the appointment of a raw materials commissioner also was regarded as new evidence that Germany is prepared to take decisive steps in any direction to keep firm control of her financial and economic life.

The importance of Germany's raw materials purchases is constantly being paraded in editorials and even the man on the street has become convinced that the world can not afford not to sell to Germany.

NRA Endorsed by National Business

30 Leaders Uphold Johnson and His Reorganization Plans

HOT SPRINGS, Va.—(P)—About 30 national business leaders, high in government councils and representative of all industry, decided Sunday that the fundamentals of the National Recovery Administration must be permanently preserved in the government as the organization keystone of American business.

The business leaders, comprising the Industrial Advisory Board, which advises Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson on the business viewpoint, also highly praised the general's efforts in a formal resolution, thus turning thumbs down on reports they planned to force his removal.

The general met with the board late Sunday night. He laid down his ideas about changes in NRA, and endorsed the purpose of the board's meeting, which is to formulate business principles for NRA's continuance.

The entire meeting has been private, but George H. Mead, chairman of the board and president of the Mead Corporation, Dayton, O., outlined what happened to newsmen.

Four main ideas were generated in the discussion:
1. The continuance of some form of government interest in the organization of business was assumed.
2. The immediate "rearrangement" of NRA, as contemplated by General Johnson, was accepted as necessary, and as the keynote for action in the next few months.
3. The necessity of increasing business influence in such reorganization by creating a permanent board to advise NRA in place of the present rotating board was decided upon.
4. A permanent board, to contain five leading industrialists or business men to be named about July 1, should be made more fully representative of American business.

There also was some consideration of the idea that NRA should be continued in its present emergency form after June 1, 1935, for another year, so that more experience could be obtained before permanent legislation is written. The business leaders probably will leave the way clear for recommendations along this line.

It was a bitter ordeal for Bill. The sight of Mrs. Plauter in rusty black, sobbing dolefully, was almost too much for him. He would have liked to fling her out of the house but he could not do that. She had lived in the Sidal home for five years and was supposed to be a close friend.

He managed to avoid her and ignored the condolences she offered. Joe Hoskins, the lawyer, a lifelong acquaintance of Grandfather Sidal, rode to the cemetery in the car with Bill, Minnie and Miss Perkins sat behind.

Little was said on the dismal trip, but on the way home again the attorney asked, "Shall I come out to your place to read the will or will you come in to the office?"

"It doesn't matter," Bill answered gloomily. "The property all goes to Madeline. You'll have to get in touch with her."
Hoskins coughed and adjusted his spectacles. "No," he said, "It doesn't. Your Grandfather didn't leave Madeline a cent."

"What?"
"The farm and everything else is yours, Bill, unless—well, he did leave a letter addressed to the two of you, but I have an idea that hasn't anything to do with the property."
"But I don't understand! I always thought—"

"I reckon he figured that, as you were man and wife, it didn't make any difference who had the property and maybe it was wiser for the man to have the say than the woman."
"But this will can't stand. It's wrong! Let's read it at once, Mr. Hoskins. There must be some mistake!"
"Just as you say, Bill, but there's no mistake. The will will have to stand."

Sandwich Movie Invades Memphis

Operator Charges 40 Cents for Sandwich, With Movie Thrown in MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(P)—The Sunday "sandwich movie" made its appearance on Main street here Sunday, although the theatre manager was arrested on the charge of violating a Tennessee "blue law" prohibiting shown on Sunday, a very good time was had by all, even the police. The main came down in torrents, but the crowds came down in autos, taxi-cabs and street cars and about to pay 40 cents for a sandwich and cold drink and see a first run picture free. It was the first operation in several years here to open a theatre on Sunday, except in the name of charity.

After the patrons, came Inspector Joseph Hewitt of the Police Department. Smiling in an aloof manner at the rows of sandwiches, the tables filling the lobby and the waitresses in their spic and span white uniforms, Inspector Hewitt hunted up Charles Mensing, the theatre manager, and hauled him off to police headquarters.

Mr. Mensing's position is that the law prohibits the operation of a Sunday show if compensation is received. "I was in the restaurant business today," he said, "with a license to operate a restaurant. The patrons did not pay to see the show, and they did not have to see the show."

One downtown hotel and an exclusive club have been showing movies free to their Sunday night dinner guests here, and Mr. Mensing contends he has the same right.

Prompt investigation of any noise in a which may save a serious accident. Occasionally an axle or a rim nut will become loose and will lead to serious damage if not attended to promptly.

Very Much Improved After Taking Cardui

"I have suffered a great deal from cramping," writes Mrs. W. A. Sewall, Jr., of Waco, Texas, "I would chill and have to go to bed for about three days at a time. I would have a dull, tired, sleepy feeling. A friend told me to try Cardui, thinking it would help me—and it did. I am very much improved and do not spend the time in bed. I certainly can recommend Cardui to other sufferers." Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

CONGRESS FINALLY

and the independents voting together. After a brief discussion of the measure by Dill and others Hastings again took the floor to resume his filibuster, reading reports, pamphlets and transcripts of committee hearings.

The party leadership had patched up its row with the insurgents and announced it was waiting only for an opportunity to break the filibuster. Realizing the impossibility of his lone task, Hastings too, capitulated and the jam broke.

Evangelist Chester Estes spoke Monday night at the Church of Christ on "The Power of God's Word." He showed how people had tried, in all ages, to discredit the Word of God; that there never was a time when the world was so organized as now, against the gospel. He further showed, by the example of Naaman (2 Kings 5) the rich man in hell (Luke 16), that people are inclined to want something supernatural instead of the plain Word of God.

He gave some demonstrations of the power of the Word, by noting that it is the seed of the kingdom, that it healed the leper, the blind received sight, the storm was stilled, the dead was raised and that all things are held in place by the power that is characteristic of the Word of God; that it is "quick and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of the soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and the intents of the heart."

He stated that the greatest charge that the church has ever received is to preach the word. 2 Tim. 3:14-17; 4:1-8; that men are preaching but what are they preaching? Every thing under the sun except the Word of God. "What does it mean to preach the Word? To preach Christ, the Word, Jesus and the gospel means the same thing. There is nothing that the sinner needs in conversion which the Word of God does not furnish. By it one is begotten 1 Cor. 4:15; Jas. 1:18, born again 1 Pet. 1:23 verse 25, quickened Isa 19:30, receives faith Heb. 11:6; Rom. 10:13-17; Acts 15:7, has his heart purified Mt. 5:8; Acts 15:9, purifies his soul 1 Pet. 1:22, is converted Psal. 137, is made clean Jno. 15:3, is saved Jas. 1:21-25. After he becomes a Christian, the Word of God furnishes him with food for spiritual strength 1 Pet. 2:1, light by which to walk Psal. 119:105 and comfort and consolation in the hour of death Mt. 19:14; Rev. 14:13.

Since there is such an interest in the religious realm concerning the question of the return to Jerusalem, Mr. Estes has chosen as his subject for Tuesday evening: "Let's Go to Jerusalem."

Mr. C. L. Bradley of Morrilton, Arkansas, who is directing the singing for the meeting, is giving a 15 minute song drill before beginning the regular service.
